Koenig Racing - in the Total Chaos/Goodyear Toyota Tacoma - scored big at the annual VORRA Fallon Nevada 250 Night Race: First in class, third overall, plus Koenig Racing is now the overall points leader.

According to team owner, Mike Koenig, "We only slowed down for thick dust and one fuel stop." Otherwise it was pedal to the metal with consistent, flawless laps. Four of the six laps timed within one minute of each other.

Mike started the race three minutes back of the leader. By Check Point One he'd cut that lead in half. At the end of lap three the Koenig pit crew did a lightning fast driver change putting Troy Robinson in the driver's seat and ahead of the V8-powered field. Getting in with Troy was co-driver and expert rally navigator Tina Brink. Using pro rally pace notes mapped out on earlier preruns, Tina kept Troy moving at top speed calling out turn after turn well before they showed up in the driving lights.

As usual, the Total Chaos suspension performed perfectly. The Team's Goodyear MT-R tires had already completed four races, but they ended the Fallon bash ready for more. "With the Goodyears," said Mike, "We were able to increase our speed through the long sandy sections like never before."

We want to thank Goodyear, Total Chaos, Doug Thorley, Currie Enterprises, Off Road Warehouse, King Shocks, Desert People Films and the entire Koenig Racing Team. See you at the next race!
